LIBRARIAN'S REPORT.

The library has been very well patronized the past year, but we are needing some new books to place on our shelves, which I presume the trustees will furnish soon.

The volumes now owned number 560. One volume has been added this year, the gift of Hon. Frank W. Rollins.

Respectfully submitted,

LIZZIE G. LOCKE, Librarian.

SCHOOL REPORT.

In presenting our report for the year just passed, we are glad to inform that the schools have maintained the standard of former years. Seven different teachers have been employed, some with years of experience and some without, but who possess the qualities for successful teachers. It is interesting and gratifying to meet parents and citizens at the closing inspection of schools, but far more promising of good results would it be to find their names previously enrolled on the register, but which we seldom see. Our teachers deserve a word of encouragement and commendation for their earnest efforts in behalf of their respective schools. No failure has occurred in consequence of inferior teachers, and if they have not done their whole duty, the cause has mostly been a lack of the necessary outside support.

No teacher can teach a really good school without an interested class of scholars, and they cannot have these unless parents are sufficiently interested to exert the proper home influence.

Parents, you are the foundation of our schools. It is you who make them long or short. It is you who can make them profitable or unprofitable. It is you who can enforce a proper obedience to the rules of the school. You can make the school-room task pleasure. Will you do it? Let us suggest how.

See that your scholars are at school every day, and in season, inquire about their lessons and behavior, not to find fault, but to assist both teacher and scholar. Never censure or speak lightly of the teacher in your children's presence. If you do not approve of the methods of instruction or discipline, go to the teacher in private, and in a spirit of love, offer your suggestions for the mutual benefit of all, remembering that teachers are not infallible.

We desire to thank all who by word or deed have aided us in the discharge of our duties.

DENNIS R. CHASE,

GEORGE F. ELLSWORTH,

School Board of Deering.
